Southern Investments.

It seems that English expitalists appreciate the possibilities of the South a good deal better than our Northern inanciers, for they are buying land in the Southern States in great quantities. Their purchases in Florida are literally immense; but they have bought large tracts in other Southern States as well, and have their agents on the lookout. They pick up plantations, which can be bought for a trifle of their value, and seize upon large uncultivated properties, to hold for future colonizing or clearing up. The English idea seems to be that a few years hence the Southern States will be the most attractive and profitable in this country, and they mean to take the occasion by the fore-top and anticipate the meytrable. And for once they are right. We have all along urged our capitalists to turn their

In connection with the above, essays will be read by the following accom-plished lady teachers: Mrs. J. G. Deupree, Mrs. Fannie Armstrong, Misses Tommie Walker, Jessie Archer, Sallie Kilpatrick and others, in which will be discussed the best methods of teaching the primitive branches of education.

Misses Alma Simmons, Maggie Rice, Kate Strong, Agnes Moore and Anna Borah will have charge of the musical feature of the Institute, which promises much pleasure to all auditors, as these ladies are cultivated musicians. Other interesting topics will receive attention. It is earnestly desired that every teacher in the district should attend, and all who do so will be both profited and interested. An Iniquitous System of Taxation.

"The people of the United States have been subjected to a burden of at least $556,000,000 every year for the past twenty years, making an aggregate of over eleven billions of dollars, not one dollar of which went into the National Treasury. Since the war began, we have paid more by incidental taxation to our 'import industries," than it cost to put down the rebellion; and pay all the claims, bonded debt, interest and damages, incident thereto."

The foregoing is a literal extract from the last number of the North American Review, an article contributed by Congressman Springer. Surely it should animate every one to an effort, to put attention Southward and make investments, when from the manage of things
